Mary Alice McLarty Elected as Vice-President of National Trial Bar

Washington, DC—Dallas attorney Mary Alice McLarty of The McLarty Firm, P.C. has been elected as vice-president of the American Association for Justice (AAJ), the world's largest trial bar, at the organization's annual convention.

McLarty has been practicing law for over 26 years, concentrating her practice on catastrophic injury cases. She has held leadership positions with the Texas Trial Lawyers Association and the Dallas Trial Lawyers Association, serving as their president in 2004.

"Mary Alice McLarty has been an outstanding advocate for consumers and the need for a strong civil justice system," said AAJ President Gibson Vance. "Whether it is victims from the largest oil spill in history, or patients harmed by medical negligence, Mary Alice's leadership will be invaluable as we work to ensure all Americans can get justice and hold wrongdoers accountable."

"AAJ plays an integral role in protecting the rights of all Americans, and I look forward to helping AAJ meet the challenges of the future," said McLarty.

As the world's largest trial bar, the American Association for Justice (formerly known as the Association of Trial Lawyers of America) works to make sure people have a fair chance to receive justice through the legal system when they are injured by the negligence or misconduct of others--even when it means taking on the most powerful corporations.
